Input: My younger brother stole a phone priced at 1490 RMB on the train. After returning home, he regretted it and turned himself in at the local police station. I want to know what kind of punishment he will face.

Model output: Stealing a phone worth 1490 RMB is a minor theft under Chinese law, punishable by up to three years of imprisonment, detention, or surveillance, and a fine. As he turned himself in and is a first-time offender, he may receive a lighter sentence.
