Legal Assistant:

Hello, I would like to consult about divorce issues.

Do you have any children? If so, what is the current age of the child and who is taking care of them? Additionally, do you have any joint property that needs to be divided? And do you have any other divorce claims?

We have one child who is currently 6 years old. I hope to gain custody of the child.

What are your and your spouse's financial situations? Do you have stable income sources? Do you have sufficient funds to raise the child? Additionally, do you have any other financial claims?

We have stable income sources, with my monthly income around 8000 and hers around 6000.

Legal Consultation Report

Consultation Questions:

Based on the information you provided, your divorce consultation includes the following points:

1. You have a 6-year-old child and hope to gain custody of the child.
2. Both you and your spouse have stable income sources, with your monthly income being approximately 8000 yuan and your spouse's monthly income being approximately 6000 yuan.
3. You wish to divide a jointly owned house, which was purchased jointly after marriage.
4. There is no domestic violence, infidelity, or similar situations between you and your spouse.

Consultation Opinions:

1. Child Custody: You have a 6-year-old child and seek custody. The court considers financial stability, caregiving ability, child's stability, and preferences. Your stable income and higher earnings than your spouse may favor your claim.
2. Property Division: You wish to divide a jointly owned house. According to the Civil Code of China, property bought jointly after marriage is joint marital property and should be divided equally. Negotiate with your spouse or request a court decision if needed.
3. Domestic Violence and Infidelity: There is no domestic violence or infidelity. The court will base decisions on other factors.
4. Divorce Agreement: Try to negotiate a divorce agreement with your spouse, covering child custody and property division. This can reduce litigation time and costs.
